

Three minutes. Camera on, joke told, review in hand.

- 1 Turn on the camera
The coach says hello and asks for your stage name.
- 2 Tell the joke
Yours or one of ours. Look at the lens. The room reacts as you go.
- 3 Read the review
Two scores, three things to try, a pro's take next to yours — and a poster with your name on it.

The meter reads expression, energy, eye contact, pace and volume. An AI opinion — for fun.

MYJOKES.AI™
PERSONALIZED JOKE DELIVERY

We make one person laugh a day. Comedians asked for a turn.

To make one particular person laugh every day, we had to learn what makes a delivery land. Stand-up puts that engine in front of a performer.

For a team night: The Great Joke Vault Escape

A comedy escape room inside your own Zoom, Meet or Teams call — AIC hosts, the doors open for a laugh. Opening early 2027 at escaperoom.myjokes.ai

THE JOKE

"Strong open, and the pause before 'my accountant' landed. Your eyes dropped to the desk twice — the room noticed."

- Hold the lens through the punchline
- Cut the second set-up line
- Half a beat longer before the tag

Closest reference: Mitch Hedberg — your take, next to his.

An audience that tells you the truth, every time.

Single joke	Your material, one punchline, one review.
Prompted set	Five jokes on the stage, one at a time. Perform, say "next".
Freestyle set	Ten minutes, no script. Every joke scored as you go.

Pick one of 29 reference humorists — Carlin to Gadsby, Mittal to Seinfeld — and see your take side by side with theirs.

What the coach listens for

- Expression and energy
- Eye contact
- Pace, volume, the pause before the punchline

What it does not do

It does not write your act. It watches, compares you with the pros, and tells you what to try next — without the ego of a human room.

The review, in under a minute.

Two scores

Delivery — what the camera saw and the microphone heard: eyes, energy, pace, the pause. The joke — the writing itself: set-up, turn, tag, and a tighter rewrite if it wants one.

For the room's wall

Every take ends with a theatre poster — face, stage name, scores. Print it, pin it.

A warm-up desk by the green room.

A laptop with a webcam where performers wait. One click, a review before they go on.

What it costs

Two acts a day, per device	free
One more act	$0.99
Advanced act (prompted or freestyle set)	$2.99
Standard plan and above: advanced mode on every toy	included

What we ask of a pilot club

- A laptop with a webcam by the green room, for a month
- Performers who share the takes they like
- Tell us where the coach is wrong

Try it tonight

- Scan the cover — two free acts a day
- Share a take from the review screen
- Write to Frantz: flohier@gmail.com
